There is a man in New York who has offered his son $5,000 if the latter will remain sober for one week. It is a pretty good money should be wasted like that.

Four hundred and seven years ago Columbus was a very busy man discovering America. Unfortunately he was not permitted to live to see what has come through his original effort.

The political campaign in Ohio is a hot one, with very indication of democratic success.

After all, there are but two classes of unfortunate in the world; those who are married and those who are not.—Chicago News.

A century ago Adam Smith noted as a remarkable accomplishment the manufacture of 48,000 pins by ten men in a day. In these times it is considered an ordinary achievement for three to make 7,500,000 pins in the same time.

An extremely modest Mississippi editor is credited with the authorship of the following: We have hanging up in our sanctum a plain black bank of generous dimensions, which appears too small for a belt and too large for a sleeveholder. The article was found on the street, and in case the owner comes in and proves property, the same will be turned over without the customary fee for advertising. It is not a dog collar.

Here is a quotation from the Boers national hymn:

Waal hoog nou in ons helder lug,
Tranialse vrijheidslug!
Ose vijand is weggeveg,
Ose blink'n bljerdag.

If John Bull thinks he is going to have a walkover in the Transvaal, he had better wear extra stout boots, says the Louisville Courier Journal.

The Prospect is the name of the new Prescott newspaper venture which has absorbed the Pick and Drill. It is natural for the Prospect to wish that the Prospect will develop into a paying proposition. May the ledge of favorable public opinion widen and the pay streak of advertising patronage grow richer. Here's our bro Schultz, success to you.

DISPUTE SETTLED

Cobre Grande Clash Over—A New Company

Sheriff Scott White returned last evening from Bisbee. Mr White informs a Phoenix reporter that the factional fight in the Cobre Grande Co matter has been quietly settled and an amicable arrangement between the disputants had been agreed upon whereby all legal suits, injunctions, etc will be withdrawn by both sides.

By this mutual agreement the so-called Greene-Mitchell faction will maintain control and be in charge of the mine while the Cortell-Wood side have withdrawn from further participation in the management. Thus the long protracted legal fight is at an end.

Under the new management a new company named the Greene Consolidated Copper Co. will absorb the Cobre Grande Company property and all stockholders and those interested in the old company will be protected by receiving an equivalent interest in the new company. The officers of the new company are W C Greene president, J W Mitchell manager and Scott White secretary.

The company have what is claimed to be one of the biggest copper propositions in Mexico or the U. S. A 200 ton furnace is in operation and it is proposed to treble the capacity, making the output a factor in the world's copper production. The building of a 65 mile railroad to connect with the main line is contemplated and sufficient capital to carry out all plans has been guaranteed. It is reported an offer of $1,250,000 for the property has been refused by President Greene.

COPPERINGS.

Cold and almost frosty this morning. Early fore-runner of winter are with us.

Norton Chase, New York; Prof Treadwell, Canonas; John Hochstad and wife Sonora; are guests of the Hotel Bessemer.

L B Sroufe, of the general office staff has returned from Tucson after a brief absence.

Arrivals at the Norton House today are J. E. Beckerton, Sonora; R. Zellner, Los Angeles; J. A. Cummings, McCabe; J. T. Terry, El Paso and Geo Picht, New York.

Trinidad Rojas arrested for petit larceny will have his trial before Judge Williams tomorrow. Two Mexican inebriates, received a sentence of ten days each.

It is reported that the Cobre Grande troubles have been amicably settled and that litigation has been avoided. The Mitchell-Green company will have absolute control of the mine, Mr J. H. Costello withdrawing his interest.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Frank Pistonette and Walter Ford, minors who are charged with running away from home night before last, taking with them a couple of burros belonging to Francisco Comacho. Their idea evidently is to imitate the heroes of yellow back novels, for besides the burros each was provided with a gun, knife a bottle of strychnine and a rope. Constable Lewis has traced the boys into the Huachuca, and will no doubt soon overtake them.

An accident occurred to the Canonas stage tonight as it was entering Bisbee, whereby it was overturned with its two passengers, Messrs C. C. Allister and F B Wightman. A heavy team, the name of the driver of which could not be learned, confronted the stage while on the steep grade below the round-house, crowding it over the bank and causing it to roll to the railroad track below. Mr M Allister escaped without injury but the driver sustained a broken leg and Mr. Wrightman severe bruises about the body and limbs.

The territorial board of health is in receipt of a circular communication from the board of health of Michigan looking toward the bringing about of a uniformity of requirements in the different states for license to practice medicine. As these requirements can be fixed only by the states themselves the desired end can be accomplished only by a system of reciprocity among states whose requirements are of a similar standard. The reciprocity process consists in the recognition by the board of one state of a certificate issued by the board of another state, in which the requirements for a license to practice are much the same. The Phoenix Republican says that the circular recommends boards of health to bring the matter before their respective state legislatures. The proposed arrangement cannot be described as a doctors' trust, but as a movement which will tend to make people trust doctors more.

ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

The American Institute of Mining Engineers Find in Bisbee the Acme of their Receptions

To the ordinary man of business, life's field presents an unobstructed view. To the astronomer also no hindrance comes when with his glass he sweeps the heavenly spaces. But a serious task confronts the Mining Engineer for it lies with him to truly guide the laboring pick when man seeks the hidden treasures of the earth at hundreds and some thousands of feet below its surface.

A sight of a number of noted members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers was accorded us of Bisbee, when their train of private cars pulled into the depot on yesterday afternoon, and the party alighted on the platform. Their arrival was heralded by a deafening din of steam whistles, bells, music by the band and shouts of the people.

Swarming somewhat warlike from their trip over the desert, yet bearing upon each face a look of appreciation, they proceeded to the mine under the guidance of the committee of reception and visited the different places of interest underground. After an enjoyable trip of investigation there and having partaken of a light collation, the party, some seventy in number, returned to their cars.

Owing to the necessity of their leaving that same night, the banquet hour had been fixed at 6:30 but it was almost 8:30 before the guests put in their appearance.

The time had been well spent by those of the culinary staff however and also by the corps of assistants in the dining hall, every detail being carefully attended to, and the feast needed but the services of the young gentlemen waiters to be placed in well selected courses before the banquet.

As to the decorations of Masonic Hall and the arrangement of the different offices of its interior, the extreme good taste of the designers was everywhere apparent.

A banquet given by a Mining company to Mining Engineers should, in its decoration and embellishment, be emblematical and appropriate, and such indeed it was.

The long tables, on which covers were laid for one hundred, were arranged in the form of the letter A, the initial letter of the name of the Territory. The cross piece was surmounted by banks of flowers—chrysanthemums and carnations, while from the pendant electric globes hung the vines of smilax. Interspersed between were blocks of ice, in fitting designs, in the hearts of which were frozen clusters of flowers, or miniature picks and spades etc. On the snowy linen glittered the en-semble of glass and china scintillating with reflections of the starry lights above, while an ingenious arrangement of candelabra made from miners' candles and candlesticks, were placed at regular distances on the tables. Even the cakes, of which a large number ornamented the board, bore the designs of hammer and drill and pick and spade. Before each plate was placed a menu card, hand sketched and printed. The walls were covered with fan palms and bunting.

Above the word "Greeting" at the upper end of the hall, appeared the emblem of the association the letters I. A. M. E. with crossed hammers. At the lower end entrance and was a raised platform for the orchestra, screened by palms and bunting in front of which a design of a cross d pick and shovel, resplendent with electric globes standing erect behind each third chair were the white jacketed waiters, young men who had kindly assumed these unusual duties in order to insure the success of the entertainment.

At about 8:30 a burst of music from the Copper Queen Band outside announced the coming of the guests and soon the entire party filed in to the strains of a march from the orchestra. Preceding the guests came Mrs Lewis Williams, the hostess of the evening, upon the arm of Prof Douglas, with Mr Ben Williams, Mr Rand, Mr Douglas and Mr Lewis Williams. This group proceeded to the upper table forming the top piece of the letter A, with Prof Douglas in the center, the seat of honor. In his capacity of usher Dr Sweet, the chief Surgeon of the Company, so on had all of the invited comfortable place. Grace was offered by Rev J. G. Pritchard and the banquet was on. For full two hours the guests discussed the various courses to the music of the hidden orchestra, until the proper moment arriving, Prof. Douglas, the toastmaster of the evening, assumed his function.

Prof. Douglas in his speech of thanks stated that on this occasion he found himself in a dual position—that of a guest of the Copper Queen Co and also as its president. It was peculiar, he said, to be, in a sense, returning thanks to himself. He remarked that Arizona had produced not only copper but patriotism, and touched feelings upon the memory of the late Captain "Bucky" O'Neil. He remembered him, he said, as a miner, a writer and a capital story teller, and related a saying of Capt. O'Neil's when he, (th Capt) was asked what were the principal things he found necessary when promoting an enterprise. The Capt. would reply: "Imagination and money,"—he to furnish the imagination and the others the money. That, said Prof. Douglas, bears immediately upon this point. Mining at the Central office means imagination, but the successful execution must remain with those who have the direct supervision of the mine. The real credit, said the Professor, lies in the management. He said that most of the successes of the Copper Queen mine were due to the efficient management of Mr. Ben Williams, ably seconded by his brother Mr. Lewis Williams. Prof. Douglas then called upon Prof. Blake for his views on Mines and Mining.

Prof. Blake, responded briefly. He touched upon mining matters as they were in 1849 and as they are today. He insisted that the secret of success in mining lay in sinking deep and drifting wide. His comments were received with marked attention.

Col. Herring was then called upon to respond to the toast "The Territory of Arizona." The Col. was at first in doubt as to his listeners with eloquent eulogy upon the vast resources of this region.

Mr. Callahan, on "Converting," then followed and delivered some pithy remarks on that subject.

Short addresses were made by Dr. Fleming and Secretary Rand, and Prof Douglas made the closing speech. A toast was drunk to the Copper Queen Co and its employees, and three cheers were given to the young gentlemen who officiated as waiters and for all who were instrumental in preparing the entertainment.

Prof Douglas then called attention to the lateness of the hour and the necessity of adjourning in order that they might prepare to leave.

After mutual congratulations the party then returned to their trains and soon were speeding away towards the Colorado.

Among those present were, Professor Douglas and wife; Secretary Rand; Geo. Dwight; F. E. Bachman; N. W. Lord; H. Reese; W. S. D. Camp and daughter; A. W. Sheaffer; W. G. Parks and daughter; J. W. Grant, Jr.; Wm Harris; W. F. Crane; Prof Blake and wife; W. F. Downes; E. W. Parker and wife; E. Lullow and wife; W. R. McElvane; Jno. Lilly; Theo. M. Flynn; B. F. Fackenthal and wife; Allen Wood the Third; Sam'l Thomas wife and son; Daniel Williams and wife; F. R. Sims; E. W. Parker and wife; S. M. Richardson; A. Tuice; Daniel Williams and wife; the Messrs Raymer and Bliss.

The local guests included only the head of the different departments of the mine and their wives, and were as follows:—Ben Williams, Superintendent; L. W. Williams, Asst. Superintendent and Manager Smelting Works, and wife; S. W. Clawson, Foreman of mine, and wife; C. L. Beckwith, Mining Engineer, and wife; J. A. Campbell, Chief Clerk, and wife; W. H. Brown, Store Manager, and wife; Dr. F. A. Sweet, Chief Surgeon; W. A. Harvey, Asst. Supt. R. R.; J. G. Pritchard, Librarian, and wife. The above named gentlemen also constituted the committee of Reception.

To all who helped to make the affair the success it was a deed of credit. Particularly should the efficient services of Madame Crosey of the Bessemer Hotel, be commented on. The general supervision of the banquet was placed in her hands, and therein largely lay its success. Harry Rudder, the proprietor of the excellent cafe, the Bohemia in San Diego Calif., and the chef on this occasion, has added fresh laurels to his fame. Bisbee will long remember the excellent menu of last night.

The Copper Queen Company nor its officials need no encomiums for this fresh display of broad mindedness and liberality; their goodness is proverbial.

The cars which bore the party away were the Wagner Sleepers, "E. Cort" and "Wildwood." Professor Douglas' private car "Convoy," Sleeper "Maine" for the crew, and Dining car 407. E. L. Cornell is steward and Wm. Moseley, chef, both having been in the employ of the Wagner Company for 18 years. The party are at present at Phoenix from whence they will go to Flagstaff, and leaving the rail there, will visit the Grand Canyon, and returning will proceed to Chicago and New York.

From Monday's Daily:

Much local matter is crowded out today to make room for the account of the Mining Engineers visit to Bisbee which was furnished by our Bisbee correspondent.

Miss Laura Crable, our obliging postmistress, returned from California after a pleasant visit among friends and her familiar face is again to be seen at her post.

A new town known as Richardson, on the N. M. & A. R. Road just north of Nogales, will become a reality in a few months. It is to become the shipping point for the Daquense, Moxy, World's Fair, Farrell and Harshaw mines.

The sixth annual convention of the Territorial Sunday School association will meet in Tucson on next Saturday and Sunday, the 21st and 22d. The executive committee has arranged a very interesting programme in which prominent Sunday school workers from all over the territory will participate.

From Tuesday's Daily:

P. A. Clark, the Los Angeles mining man who has a bond on some Pearce property was in yesterday. Mr Clark reports work progressing satisfactorily and prospects good, but modestly refrains from giving details.

The Utica mine and mill at Angels Camp are shutting down on account of scarcity of water and the installing of machinery to operate the mines by electricity in the future. The shut-down will continue until after the rains commence.

The Gazette is trying to cast aspersions on Editor Hughes of the Star as witness:—"Editor Hughes, whom it was thought fitted with P. A. Hart, says he would not fool with a girl who had a pistol pocket in her clothes. There is no sort of truth in the report. The governor is a law abiding citizen and no nymph in calico could prevail upon him to shatter the commandments.

A few months ago Eujenion Mata, without any provocation or excuse, wickedly and feloniously shot and killed Miss Wahl, a young Mexican girl at Springer in Apache county. The murderer was apprehended, indicted and convicted of murder in the first degree last week at the S. Johns court, and was sentenced to be hanged on Friday, the first day of next December.

Gasoline engine hoists are slowly but surely making their appearance in many of the camps in the southwest. Gasoline engines have been looked upon askance by the mining fraternity for a number of years but the prejudice is being killed by the late improvements in the engine. The little giants are a God-send to mines and isolated camps where wood and water are scarce.

The sad intelligence of the death of Mrs Mark Smith at Tucson yesterday was a shock and caused a pain of regret and sorrow among the many friends of the estimable lady here. Mrs Smith had been an invalid for years and bore the burden of more than her share of illness, notwithstanding she was a loving and devoted wife and possessed of those rare womanly qualities and christian virtues which make life radiant with goodness, winning for her the lasting friendship and highest esteem of all who knew her, and they are legion. Her death is universally mourned and a generous outpouring of heartfelt sympathy is tendered to the bereaved husband in his irreparable loss.

Yesterday marked the opening day of killing of quail. It was ushered in by a wholesale slaughter of the birds. The record is held by G W Swain, the territorial attorney, who kill of 83 in as many minutes; Harry and King slew about a dozen; McParson and Frere made a drive by landing a similar number; Cummings butchered enough for a meal and Miano, by a close shave, succeeded in bagging one Woleay and Butler run short of salt and only returned with a few; Wentworth and Cook killed plenty of time and returning bought three birds which was exhibited as evidence of their marksmanship.
